The data set we are using for this project came from:

http://www.repole.com/sun4cast/stats/cfb20130907.xml

It is a set of college football statistics from the 2013 season. It contains individual teams and their win-loss records. It also has statistics like passing, running, and turnovers from individual games during the 2013 season. It is primarily organized by team name, the date the game was played, and the stats at the end of the game from each game last season.
